Index to Volume 3

A

ANDREWS, R. B.—Housing for the elderly: Aspects of its central problem. P. 110

—Housing for the elderly: State and city-county based market analysis, an outline of method and administration. P. 148

B

BEATTIE, W. M., JR.—Memorandum from the president. P. 50

BENNETT, RUTH—The meaning of institutional life. P. 117

BLUMENTHAL, H. T.—A threat to biology and medicine. P. 4

BOOKS—Pp. 46, 96, 144, 188

C

Current activities and events in the field of aging. Pp. 38, 79, 131, 168

Curriculum project in applied gerontology—P. 166

F

Foreign Correspondents—

Italian contributions to gerontology (G. Mars) P. 36

Gerontological activities in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg (R. Schaus) P. 37

Gerontological and related activities in Finland (Eeva Jalavisto) P. 76

FRUSH, J., JR.—The interrelationship of medical facilities to institutional housing for the aged. P. 61

G

GITMAN, L.—Viewpoint: Is the Gerontological Society necessary? P. 98

GOLDFARB, A. I.—Viewpoint: The aging physician. P. 2.

H

HAYNES, MARIA S.—The supposedly golden age for the aged in ancient Rome. P. 26

HULICKA, IRENE M.—Participation in group conferences by geriatric patients. P. 10

J

JALAVISTO, EEVA—Gerontological and related activities in Finland. P. 76

K

KASTEN, J—The case for standards in home care programs. P. 14

KLEEMEIER, R. W.—Viewpoint: Change. P. 146.

KRAUSS, T. C.—Indoctrination of medical students in principles of geriatrics. P. 152

KRAVITZ, S.—and Lambert, Camille, Jr. Volunteer interviews among the elderly. P. 55

L

LAMBERT, CAMILLE, JR.—(See Kravitz, S.)

LANDSMAN, G.—Explorations in mental health programs for the aging. P. 105

LEHMAN, H. C.—Chronological age versus present-day contributions to medical progress. P. 71

LEON, ERNESTINE F.—Cicero on geriatrics. P. 128

LONDON, S. J.—The ecology of aging in musicians. P. 160

M

MARS, G.—Italian contributions to gerontology, 1960-1962. P. 36

Membership List, Gerontological Society. September Supplement III

MENSH, I. N.—Studies of older psychiatric patients. P. 100

N

NEWMARK, L.—The development of a residents' council in a home for the aged. P. 22

O

Organization Section—Pp. 91, 140, 179

P

PARSONS, T.—Viewpoint: Old age as consummatory phase. P. 53

POST, F.—Depressive reactions in the elderly: A reappraisal. P. 156

PRESSEY, S. L.—Most important and most neglected topic: Potentials. P. 69

Program Highlights. P. 52

Program of the 16th annual meeting of the Gerontological Society. September Supplement II

R

ROSEN, H. M.—Curriculum project in applied gerontology. P. 166

RUSALEM, H.—Deterrents to vocational disengagement among older disabled workers. P. 64

S

SCHAUS, R.—Gerontological activities in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg. P. 37

SHANAS, ETHEL—Some observations on cross-national surveys of aging. P. 7

V

Viewpoints:

The aging physician (A. I. Goldfarb) P. 2

Old age as consummatory phase (T. Parsons) P. 53

Is the Gerontological Society necessary? (L. Gitman) P. 98

Change (R. W. Kleemeier) P. 146

W

WALLACH, S.—The Oliver Wendell Holmes association. P. 126

Y

Youth and age specialists to meet at novel reception which launches Gerontological Society's Boston meeting. P. 51

Z

ZINSSER, H. H.—Elastic implications of Aging. P. 18

Index to Volume 3

A

ANDREWS, R. B.—Housing for the elderly: Aspects of its central problem. P. 110

—Housing for the elderly: State and city-county based market analysis, an outline of method and administration. P. 148

B

BEATTIE, W. M., JR.—Memorandum from the president. P. 50

BENNETT, RUTH—The meaning of institutional life. P. 117

BLUMENTHAL, H. T.—A threat to biology and medicine. P. 4

BOOKS—Pp. 46, 96, 144, 188

C

Current activities and events in the field of aging. Pp. 38, 79, 131, 168

Curriculum project in applied gerontology—P. 166

F

Foreign Correspondents—

Italian contributions to gerontology (G. Mars) P. 36

Gerontological activities in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg (R. Schaus) P. 37

Gerontological and related activities in Finland (Eeva Jalavisto) P. 76

FRUSH, J., JR.—The interrelationship of medical facilities to institutional housing for the aged. P. 61

G

GITMAN, L.—Viewpoint: Is the Gerontological Society necessary? P. 98

GOLDFARB, A. I.—Viewpoint: The aging physician. P. 2.

H

HAYNES, MARIA S.—The supposedly golden age for the aged in ancient Rome. P. 26

HULICKA, IRENE M.—Participation in group conferences by geriatric patients. P. 10

J

JALAVISTO, EEVA—Gerontological and related activities in Finland. P. 76

K

KASTEN, J—The case for standards in home care programs. P. 14

KLEEMEIER, R. W.—Viewpoint: Change. P. 146.

KRAUSS, T. C.—Indoctrination of medical students in principles of geriatrics. P. 152

KRAVITZ, S.—and Lambert, Camille, Jr. Volunteer interviews among the elderly. P. 55

L

LAMBERT, CAMILLE, JR.—(See Kravitz, S.)

LANDSMAN, G.—Explorations in mental health programs for the aging. P. 105

LEHMAN, H. C.—Chronological age versus present-day contributions to medical progress. P. 71

LEON, ERNESTINE F.—Cicero on geriatrics. P. 128

LONDON, S. J.—The ecology of aging in musicians. P. 160

M

MARS, G.—Italian contributions to gerontology, 1960-1962. P. 36

Membership List, Gerontological Society. September Supplement III

MENSH, I. N.—Studies of older psychiatric patients. P. 100

N

NEWMARK, L.—The development of a residents' council in a home for the aged. P. 22

O

Organization Section—Pp. 91, 140, 179

P

PARSONS, T.—Viewpoint: Old age as consummatory phase. P. 53

POST, F.—Depressive reactions in the elderly: A reappraisal. P. 156

PRESSEY, S. L.—Most important and most neglected topic: Potentials. P. 69

Program Highlights. P. 52

Program of the 16th annual meeting of the Gerontological Society. September Supplement II

R

ROSEN, H. M.—Curriculum project in applied gerontology. P. 166

RUSALEM, H.—Deterrents to vocational disengagement among older disabled workers. P. 64

S

SCHAUS, R.—Gerontological activities in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg. P. 37

SHANAS, ETHEL—Some observations on cross-national surveys of aging. P. 7

V

Viewpoints:

The aging physician (A. I. Goldfarb) P. 2

Old age as consummatory phase (T. Parsons) P. 53

Is the Gerontological Society necessary? (L. Gitman) P. 98

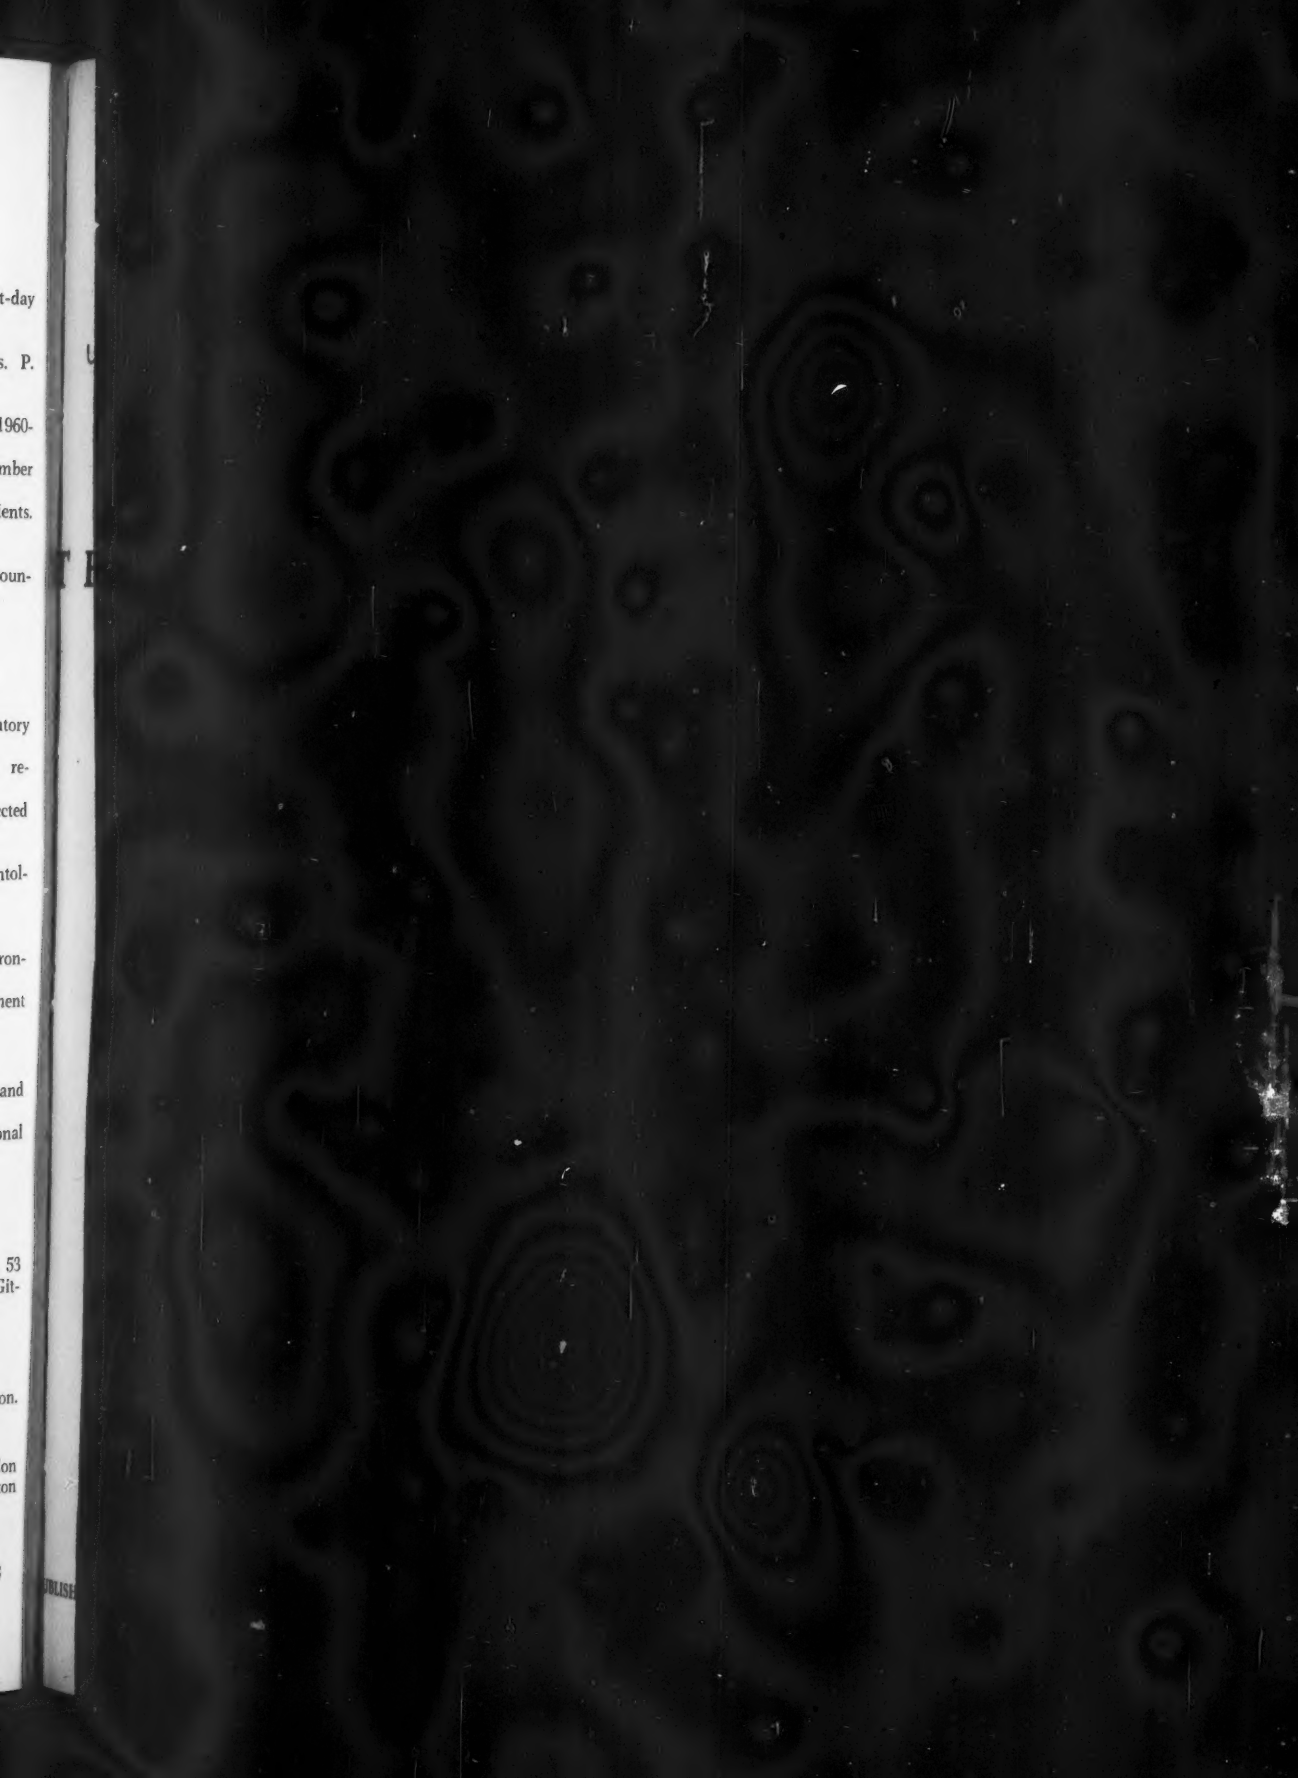
Change (R. W. Kleemeier) P. 146

W

WALLACH, S.—The Oliver Wendell Holmes association. P. 126

Y

Youth and age specialists to meet at novel reception which launches Gerontological Society's Boston meeting. P. 51

Z


ZINSSER, H. H.—Elastic implications of Aging. P. 18